Monster MOB

A gang of retirees battle a mysterious force in a new adventure from the creators of Stranger Things

NEW SCI-FI

The Boroughs

From Thu 21 May, Netflix

Art goes on a journey of self-discovery

Just as the dust settles on the streets of Hawkins, Indiana, the masterminds behind Stranger Things return – this time with a more grown-up crew of monster-fighting misfits who are whipping up a desert storm in New Mexico.

The Boroughs is set in an idyllic retirement community in Albuquerque, where the lawns are perfectly manicured, the neighbours are overly friendly and round-the-clock help is at hand. But as the eight-part sci-fi thriller begins, new arrival Sam (Alfred Molina) is reluctant to join the community following the recent death of his wife.

Lonely, grieving and feeling trapped, retired aeronautical engineer Sam forces himself to attend a barbecue hosted by his affable neighbour, Jack (Bill Pullman), and is introduced to a group of ragtag residents, including ex-music manager Renee (Geena Davis), hawk-eyed journalist Judy (Alfre Woodard), and spiritual seeker Art (Clarke Peters).

However, just as he begins to settle in, Sam awakes one night to a monstrous discovery and begins to suspect that something sinister is lurking within the pristine cul-de-sac. Can he and his new friends unearth the truth before their time is up?

'This cast is amazing, and we all took the job seriously, but not ourselves at all, which made for a very easy atmosphere,' says Molina, 72, star of mystery series Three Pines and the Spider-Man film franchise. 'I'd love for audiences to fall in love with these characters the way we did.'

JAW-DROPPING TWISTS

Molina's first wife, actor Jill Gascoine, died in 2020, and he was able to relate to his Boroughs alter ego.

'Sam's grumpiness appealed to me, but I also realised that the subject of loss is something I share with him,' he says. 'I wasn't asked to mine that memory, but I was happy to say, "I know what that feels like."'

The series also features Sam's daughter, Claire (Jena Malone), The Boroughs' charming security guard Paz (Carlos Miranda), and his oafish superior Hank (Eric Edelstein), while CEO Blaine Shaw (Seth Numrich) runs the community.

'One of the things I love about this project is that the first seven people on the cast list are over 60,' says Clemency star Woodard, 73.

STRANGE NEW WORLD

The eight-part supernatural drama is executive-produced by the sibling duo behind Stranger Things, Ross and Matt Duffer.

'We were sent a very early version of the idea, which involved a group of older characters living in a retirement home – and monsters. Needless to say, that was right up our alley,' says Matt. 'We're both fans of [1985 film] Cocoon, so it felt exactly right.

'The Boroughs definitely shares elements with Stranger Things in that you have a band of unlikely heroes battling something extraordinary and supernatural. They just happen to be on opposite ends of the spectrum when it comes to age. They've got golf carts instead of bicycles!'

call her nosy, she simply wants to know what's going on. She's always looking and observing. I think that audiences will freak when they see what's hiding inside The Boroughs. It's going to be jaw-dropping.'

The Duffer brothers, Stranger Things' creative duo, are executive producers, while Jeffrey Addiss and Will Matthews, the makers of Netflix fantasy epic The Dark Crystal: Age of Resistance, are the creators and showrunners.

Addiss spent time checking out a real retirement city in Arizona before building began on the entire community of The Boroughs, from the cul-de-sac to the town square.

EXOTIC PAST

'When I first read the script, I thought it was fabulous that it was set in a retirement community with people my age, plus the supernatural aspects were exciting,' says Oscar-winner Davis, 70, whose iconic films include The Fly and Thelma & Louise. 'In my movies, I've been the girlfriend of a fly and an alien, so I have experience in this sort of far-out world!

'Renee is a little different from the rest of the group and has had more worldly experience. She's travelled and mingled with important, famous people, and I love that she has an exotic past.'

Renee's best friend in The Boroughs is retired doctor Wally, played by Denis O'Hare, and the two actors hit it off immediately.

'I'm always intimidated on the first day of filming, and I was nervous to meet Geena,' says American Horror Story's O'Hare, 64. 'That evaporated within minutes, though. What we all share is experience and an ease with working. We know how to talk to each other, work together, and everybody tells great stories. It's been a delight.'

LONDON CALLING

John Krasinski returns as CIA hero Jack Ryan in a feature-length thriller set in the UK

NEW ACTION DRAMA

Tom Clancy's Jack Ryan: Ghost War

From Wednesday 20 May, Prime Video

Emma, James and Jack

John Krasinski's principled CIA hero Jack Ryan is back this week in a feature-length adventure that takes him from Dubai to London.

As the movie begins, Jack is a civilian working on Wall Street and happy to be out of the murky world of espionage after a series of high-stakes operations took a toll on his personal life.

However, it's not long before he's drawn back into undercover work at the behest of his former boss and mentor James Greer (The Wire's Wendell Pierce).

'The story picks up a year and a half after the end of Season 4, when Jack decided not to stay with the CIA because he wanted to go back to real life,' explains Krasinski, 46, who also co-wrote the screenplay.

'But then he realises: "What is real life without the CIA?" Because, for him, real life is nothing if he can't be of service, doing something to progress the safety and security of the world.'

James dispatches Jack to Dubai on what he assures him will be a simple courier mission. Of course, it turns out to be anything but – and when the pick-up goes tragically wrong, Jack teams up with MI6 officer Emma Marlowe (Sienna Miller) as the pair find themselves in the cross hairs of Liam Crown (Max Beesley), the leader of a rogue paramilitary outfit.

And with James initially leaving Jack in the dark about the mission, the close relationship between the two is put to the test.

'For me, the love story of Jack Ryan has always secretly been James Greer and Jack,' adds Krasinski, who starred in the long-running American version of The Office. 'At this point, they feel secure in their belief systems, but in this movie we get to see them explain how they feel, and fully disagree on how things should be done.'

Meanwhile, veteran colleague Mike November (Michael Kelly), a key ally across three seasons of the TV show, has been approached by James to provide back-up.

'Mike is the comic relief,' says Krasinski. 'But he has always been there for Jack, and is the only person James Greer knows is trustworthy enough to protect him.'

EXPLOSIVE ACTION

With Jack and James crossing the Atlantic to meet with MI6, there are lots of thrilling action set pieces in iconic London locations.

'We start at the Old Royal Naval College in Greenwich, where they shot [1992 Jack Ryan film] Patriot Games with Harrison Ford, and where some vehicles are blown up by my good self,' says Beesley, 55. 'There's also a car chase through Parliament Square and Whitehall, ending at St Paul's Cathedral. Shutting off the streets of London like that, on five weekends, has not been done for years.'

For new cast member Miller, 44, taking part in a big action thriller was a welcome change.

'I felt ready to do something flashy and fun, and learn how to use weapons and fight,' she reveals, adding that the relationship between Emma and Jack was fun to play.

'The dynamic starts off as very hostile from Emma's perspective, as she's not sure which side Jack is on. But it becomes quite punchy and funny as she ribs him for his nerdiness, and he's surprised by how tough she is. There's potential for these two to be good friends and, by the end of the film, they really respect each other.'

Haley Lu Richardson and Emilia Clarke go undercover in 1970s Moscow

NEW THRILLER

Ponies

Friday, 9pm, Sky Atlantic (box set, Sky Box Sets & NOW)

The cloak-and-dagger world of 1970s Moscow comes under the magnifying glass in Ponies, Sky Atlantic's glossy, humour-laden Cold War thriller about two American women who become spies after their CIA-agent husbands are mysteriously killed in the line of duty.

Meeting in a Moscow market on Christmas Eve in 1976, reserved Bea Grant (Game of Thrones' Emilia Clarke) seems to have little in common with enigmatic Twila Hasbeck (The White Lotus' Haley Lu Richardson). Even so, placid housewife Bea is curious to see more of larger-than-life Twila.

'When we first meet Bea, she's hyper-aware of wanting to do everything correctly and please her husband,' explains Clarke. 'But you also see the germs of her wanting to do more, and Twila's influence makes Bea aware of her own desires.'

As the women meet again at the US Embassy's Christmas Party, spy boss Dane Walter (Adrian Lester) pulls them aside and reveals their respective spouses, Chris and Tom, have died in a plane crash.

Wanting answers, the widows persuade Dane that as 'persons of no interest', AKA 'ponies', they're perfectly placed to investigate what happened.

UNDER THE RADAR

Reluctantly, Dane agrees, and a crash course in espionage follows, with the mismatched duo plunged into the deep end of intelligence gathering while evading Moscow's secret police.

Adrian Lester as Dane Walter

Before long, fluent Russian speaker Bea catches the eye of KGB agent Andrei Vasiliev (Das Boot's Artjom Gilz), while Twila fearlessly helps maintain her cover.

'The stakes keep getting higher' says Clarke, 39. 'In this situation, the job requires them to change – Bea needs to learn to get her hands dirty, while Twila needs to learn how to get her hands clean.'

Filmed in Budapest, the series also stars Dame Harriet Walter as Bea's gran Manya, while Clarke's role required her to learn Russian.

'I'm not a linguist, but I had an incredible teacher,' says Clarke. 'It got to the point that I would even dream in Russian!'

Twist of faith

Keeley Hawes and Paapa Essiedu star in Jack Thorne's tale of forbidden love...

NEW DRAMA

Falling

Tuesday & Wednesday, 9pm, C4 (box set, Channel 4 Streaming)

BAFTA-winning writer Jack Thorne has drawn inspiration from some of Britain's most topical issues in dramas such as Adolescence, Best Interests and National Treasure during his glittering career.

But in his new C4 series Falling, Thorne pens his very first love story as he tells the tale of a forbidden romance between a devout Catholic nun and the priest who captures her heart.

Anna and David

Set in Bristol, the six-parter begins when a chance encounter for nun Anna (Keeley Hawes) and priest David (Babies actor Paapa Essiedu) sparks a connection that leaves them questioning their vows of celibacy and their relationship with God.

'I've wanted to work with Jack Thorne for a long time,' says Bodyguard and Miss Austen star Hawes. 'He's created something that's beautifully observed, unsentimental and very tender. It really spoke to me.'

Anna's deepening feelings come completely out of the blue for the nun, who's been happily living in a convent without ever wishing for a companion.

'It's not that Anna is looking for a way out, it's a chemical reaction to David, specifically,' explains Hawes, 50. 'It leads to a huge guilt, because Anna has forsaken all others for God, so to even question that, let alone act upon it, is unthinkable. It's the worst thing that could happen, but also a wonderful thing.'

DANGEROUS LIAISON

As this week's two episodes unfold, Anna makes the bold decision to open her heart to David, forcing the pair to consider what being together would cost them. David is worried about giving in to temptation again, after previously descending into alcoholism following the suicide of a man for whom he felt responsible.

'It's a story about love at first sight,' says Thorne. 'But I also wanted a character who is certain and a character who is uncertain. Anna does something so radical when she tells David how she feels and this sets the flame alight for the rest of the show.'

But it's not just David who's been shaped by his past. As the story continues, we discover more about Anna's decision to devote her life to God all those years ago.

'We see flashes of her life many years before and the family dynamic with her mum,' explains Hawes. 'We get glimpses of what her decision did to her family, why she went, and the heartbreak that it's caused her father in particular.'

DIGGING DEEPER

By looking at a burgeoning relationship through the prism of a shared religion, Thorne, 47, also hopes to tell wider stories about themes such as domestic violence and adoption.

'A family member of mine is a very serious Catholic and has been telling me I'd better know what I'm doing!' he grins. 'I hope we've been careful and celebrated the power and importance of the Church.'

Sam Battle – AKA Look Mum No Computer – is aiming for Eurovision glory in Vienna

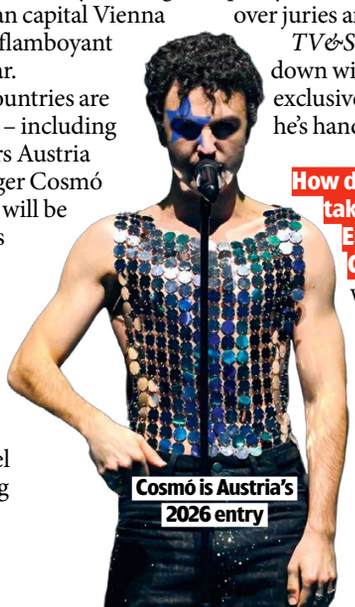
LIVE ENTERTAINMENT

Eurovision Song Contest Grand Final

Saturday, 8pm, BBC1

Graham Norton will be giving his cheeky take on the 70th Eurovision Song Contest on Saturday evening when the Austrian capital Vienna stages this year's flamboyant music spectacular.

Twenty-five countries are vying for victory – including last year's winners Austria with teenage singer Cosmó – although there will be some absences as Spain, Iceland, Ireland, the Netherlands and Slovenia are boycotting the contest in protest at the inclusion of Israel amid the ongoing conflict in Gaza.



Cosmó is Austria's 2026 entry

The UK's hopes of success rest on the shoulders of Ramsgate-based musician Sam Battle, AKA Look Mum No Computer, whose stage name refers to his songwriting method of using self-built synthesisers rather than high-tech composing software. Can his quirky tune Eins, Zwei, Drei win over juries and audiences?

TV&Streaming Week sat down with Battle for an exclusive chat to find out how he's handling the pressure…

How does it feel to be taking part in the Eurovision Song Contest? I remember watching it with my mum when I was younger and seeing the acts in the green room after all the performances. Everyone was together, and it felt like a nice place to be. That stuck with me. But if you'd asked me even a year ago if I'd be doing this, I didn't think it would be possible.

What has been the public's response so far? The postman's reaction was very funny. He said, 'Sam, I didn't realise you sang!' That has been the sentiment of everyone in town. I went to the bakery recently and got a thumbs up, so they seem to be rooting for me.

Commentator Graham Norton

Can you tell us about your stage set? We're pushing the boat out. Our creative director is [world-renowned choreographer] Fredrik 'Benke' Rydman, who thinks very big and has a certain style. I've still got to build some of the props, sets and instruments, which I'm looking forward to as spray paint, drills and soldering irons are my natural zone!

In the past two contests, the UK hasn't scored any points in the audience vote. Can you turn that around? I'm just going to try my hardest. Eins, Zwei, Drei is a fun song that might translate well to certain countries. It's about reminding Europe that we in the UK are European, too.

What would be a successful result at Eurovision for you? I'd just be happy singing my song and having a really tasty schnitzel! And then coming back to the UK with everyone knowing I tried my hardest. My wife and I have just had a baby, so win or lose, I'll be getting off the plane and going straight back to changing nappies – I'm going to have no choice.

Born in London, actor and writer Samson Kayo won a Royal Television Society award for his role as a paramedic in Sky Comedy's Bloods. His other credits include a time-travelling jazz musician in Timewasters, pizza delivery driver Joshua in Sliced, a paranormal investigator in Truth Seekers, and pirate Oluwande Boodhari in Our Flag Means Death.

HIS NEW ROLE

This week, Kayo takes over from Hugh Skinner as the voice of big-hearted dragon Zog in a new animated series based on the books by The Gruffalo's creators Julia Donaldson and Axel Scheffler. Zog rejoins friends Doctor Princess Pearl (Patsy Ferran) and Sir Gadabout the Great (Will Merrick) as they soar across the land on wonderful adventures. 'Zog is a kind, courageous, lovable dragon who deeply cares about helping everyone,' says Kayo. 'I was a fan of Julia Donaldson books growing up so it was a no-brainer when I was asked to be part of her multiverse.'

NEW CRIME DRAMA

Death Valley

Sunday, 8.15pm, BBC1 (box set, BBC iPlayer)

Retired actor John Chapel (Timothy Spall) and detective Janie Mallowan (Gwyneth Keyworth) are back in action as BBC1's comedy drama Death Valley returns this week, but all is not well between the unconventional crime-solving duo.

After first meeting when Janie recognised the reclusive star of her favourite crime drama while investigating the death of his neighbour, the pair became close friends – but that dynamic was threatened at the end of the first series when John began dating Janie's mother, Yvonne (Gavin & Stacey's Melanie Walters).

'It's such a betrayal – John's her best friend, and he goes off with her mam!' chuckles Keyworth, 35, when we join the pair on set during the filming of Series 2. 'They are in a slightly tense place as we start this series; it's kind of awkward and weird between them.'

TOWERING TALENT

Although the pair are barely speaking to each other, John has now officially been hired as a police consultant, meaning Janie has to work with him whether she likes it or not. Their latest case involves a suspicious death at a local castle, where John's acting talents are put to use as he goes undercover among the suspects.

Under Suspicion: Kate McCann

Wednesday, 9pm, 5

The unsolved disappearance of Madeleine McCann in 2007 is still making headlines to this day. Now, the harrowing story becomes the focus of Under Suspicion: Kate McCann, a heart-rending one-off film on 5 that centres on the almost unbelievable moment Madeleine's despairing parents, Kate and Gerry, became formal suspects in the case.

The family were on holiday in Praia da Luz, Portugal, when three-year-old Madeleine vanished. The drama picks up 98 days later, with the Portuguese police facing intense pressure to make a breakthrough.

But when officers decide to put instinct

'A group of people from all different walks of life have to clear up after a rave, as part of their community payback, and one of them is found at the bottom of a tower' explains Spall, 69.

The first series was an instant hit when it launched last May, achieving the largest UK overnight audience for a new scripted show in five years, and the stars were delighted to receive such an enthusiastic reception.

'When you make anything, it's fingers crossed that people like it,' says Keyworth. 'To have such a warm reception has been like magic.'

Spall also appreciates the opportunity to further explore the bond between the two characters which crosses the generation gap.

'Death Valley is a whodunnit and a comedy, but it also has this element of their friendship,' he says. 'It's not a father-daughter thing, they're almost like siblings. It makes them a bit uncomfortable if they're ever emotional with each other – they always undercut it with insults.'

Kate is questioned

Kate McCann, played by Doctors actor Laura Bayston, at the heart of their investigation, she faces hours of gruelling interrogation that ends with her being named a suspect in her own daughter's disappearance.

'I have two children who were a similar age at the time Madeleine disappeared and it terrified me,' says Bayston, 47, also known for her roles in Killing Eve and Slow Horses.

'Hopefully, viewers will have a better understanding of the situation Kate was navigating, although I think it's impossible to truly understand the weight of such immense pressure and scrutiny.'

TRAUMATIC

Based on official statements and recorded testimony, the drama culminates in the pressure-cooker moment when detectives claim to have forensic evidence showing Madeleine died in an accident and that Kate and Gerry (Outlander's James Robinson) hid her body.

The police want a confession, and without one, they may charge Kate with her daughter's murder.

'That moment when Kate is presented with the offer to admit guilt was a punch in the guts to film,' says Bayston. 'It was hard to rein in the emotions – a mix of utter despair and white rage. I thought of her and Madeleine every day while filming.'

WEB of LIES

A lonely divorced mother is caught up in an online murder mystery

tv Maximum Pleasure Guaranteed

NEW Available: Wednesday 20 May
Genre: Thriller Season: 1 Eps: 10
(first two eps from 20 May, then weekly)

A newly divorced mother finds herself in a murky underworld of online scams, blackmail and murder in Apple TV's darkly comedic thriller Maximum Pleasure Guaranteed.

The 10-part series stars Tatiana Maslany as Paula, a magazine fact-checker who's living in an apartment she can't afford, and who's also locked in a bitter custody battle with her ex-husband Karl (Jake Johnson) over their young daughter.

In need of escapism, Paula forms an emotional bond with charming 'cam boy' Trevor (Brandon Flynn), an adult content creator who talks to clients online to fulfil their fantasies.

'All the things Paula knew about herself have been taken away or changed,' says Maslany, 40. 'She is recently divorced, she's fighting for the custody of her kid, and now she's involved in a relationship with a cam boy who is her confidant and her source of intimacy.'

However, during one of their late-night chats, Paula is left terrified when she witnesses Trevor being brutally attacked.

Murray Bartlett plays Trevor's boyfriend Dennis

As the police are called in, the investigation is led by Detective Sofia Gonzalez (Dolly De Leon) and her partner Detective Baxter (Jon Michael Hill). But the pair are dismissive of the case and believe that Paula is the victim of a sextortion scam.

DANGEROUS RESEARCH

However, when she later finds Trevor dead, Paula launches her own investigation that pulls her into the orbit of Trevor's older boyfriend Dennis (Murray Bartlett), and she puts her family's safety in jeopardy.

'Paula's fact-checking brain knows something's not right and wants to figure it out,' explains Maslany, who won an Emmy in 2016 for her multiple roles in sci-fi thriller Orphan Black.

'That tension and the reckless choices Paula makes are what I love about her. She is trying her best to be responsible, be the best mother and the best employee, but her innate instinct is to pursue something – it's a desire conflict.'

Showrunner David Rosen says that combining the murder mystery with the unrelenting chaos of Paula's life was crucial to striking the perfect balance between thriller and comedy.

'The tone of the show is tricky – we had to write a well-crafted thriller, then inject characters who would add comedy but never undercut the suspense we were trying to build,' he says. 'We want viewers to laugh, but we don't want to let the air out of the balloon.'

Music icon Kylie Minogue looks back on her life and career

NETFLIX Kylie

NEW Available: Wednesday 20 May
Genre: Documentary Season: 1 Eps: 3

Kylie Minogue's 40-year career has seen many guises, from squeaky-clean Neighbours soap star to Grammy Award-winner and Glastonbury headliner. She's sold 80 million records along the way and had high-profile relationships with her Neighbours co-star Jason Donovan and late INXS frontman Michael Hutchence.

Now, she's the subject of a new three-part Netflix documentary, simply titled Kylie.

'It took me a few years to agree to the project,' admits Australian icon Minogue, 57. 'But I was at a good point in my life to take this leap of faith. I thought, "What am I scared of?" And once again, like so many other times in my career, I decided to go with my instinct and give it a try.'

Directed by Michael Harte, who worked on Netflix's Beckham, the series features contributions from Donovan, Nick Cave and Minogue's sister, Dannii, and begins with her time playing Charlene Mitchell in Australian soap Neighbours, her first hit with Locomotion, and the media excitement surrounding her relationship with Donovan.

'Seeing Jason's footage of us on holiday made me nostalgic,' says Minogue. 'When I saw it for the first time, my heart swelled. I thought, "We were just babies!" It brought back tidal waves of emotion and love.'

In Neighbours with Jason Donovan

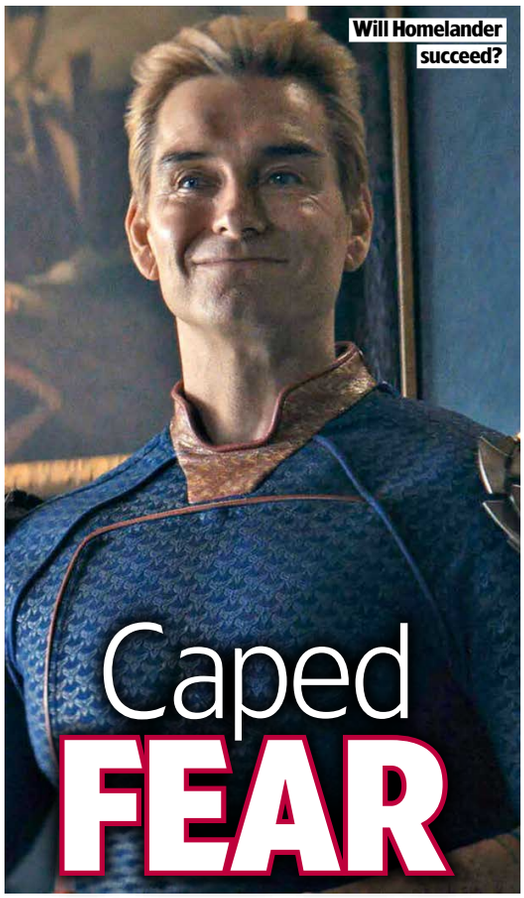
Away from the glittering highs of Minogue's career, the series also touches on some personal lows, including her 2005 breast-cancer diagnosis when she was just 36.

'Historically, some of those stories are out there, so there was no avoiding them,' says Minogue. 'Those stories were a massive part of my life – they're still a massive part of my life today. And they weren't easy to access and talk about.

'I feel like [this docuseries] is a series of love stories. It's a love story with my music, with certain people in my life, with my family, fans and so much more. I've been saying to my friends, "Buckle up, you're in for a ride."'



Will Homelander succeed?

Can anyone stop Homelander in the finale of The Boys?

prime The Boys

LAST ONE Available: Wednesday 20 May
Genre: Superhero drama
Season: 5 Episode: 8 (of 8)

After five seasons of wreaking high-flying murder and mayhem, unhinged Supe leader Homelander has achieved absolute power in the US. Next stop, the world – but not before one last, deeply personal battle with Billy Butcher and his ragtag vigilantes.

As the series comes to an apocalyptic climax this week, Homelander (Antony Starr) has fully succumbed to megalomania, killing almost anyone who doubted him in his takeover of the White House. But after injecting himself with the V1 serum and effectively becoming immortal, there's seemingly no stopping the star-spangled psychopath and his quest for power.

SUPERHERO COMPLEX

'Some things in the finale are surprising, but I hope it feels like there's something inevitable about what happens, and it's not painful, but satisfying,' says Starr, 50. 'Homelander is compelling and confusing because people can relate to him in layered moments when there's a lot of humanity on display.'

With allegiances in constant flux, will Billy Butcher's obsessive pursuit of vengeance for the death of his wife cross a line with his own squad?

'The audience doesn't know what Homelander is going to do – that's what makes him terrifying,' says Karl Urban, 53, who plays Billy Butcher. 'But bad guys can do good things, and good guys can do bad things. That's what makes The Boys such an interesting and complex tapestry.'

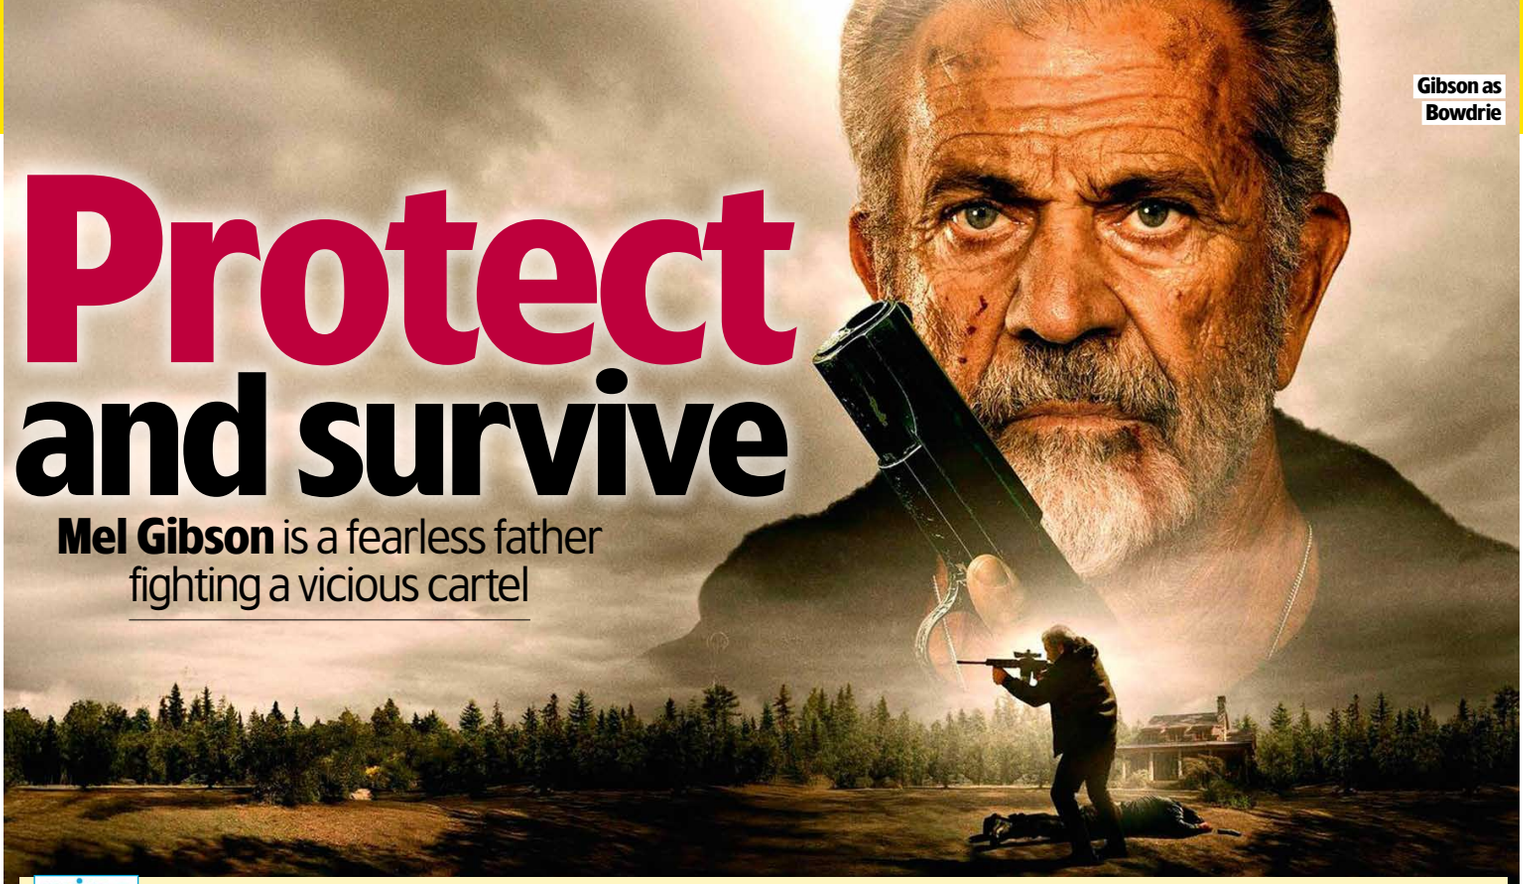
Mel Gibson is a fearless father fighting a vicious cartel



Gibson as Bowdrie

prime Hunting Season

NEW Available: Sunday 17 May
Genre: Thriller

After becoming one of Hollywood's most bankable stars thanks to the Mad Max and Lethal Weapon films, Mel Gibson goes back to his gun-toting roots this week in action thriller Hunting Season on Prime Video.

The 70-year-old Oscar-winner plays Bowdrie, a reclusive survivalist who lives a self-sufficient existence in a cabin in the remote woods of Oklahoma with his daughter Tag (Ozark star Sofia Hublitz).

Spending their days hunting deer, chopping wood and lighting fires, the religious family's simple world is turned upside down when father and daughter rescue a mysterious, badly wounded woman named January (Shelley Hennig), who is clinging to life on a riverbank.

'Bowdrie and Tag are living their everyday life, hunting and cleaning their guns, living off the earth – then they find this hurt woman and take her in,' explains the film's director, RJ Collins. 'They don't know who she is and they don't really trust her, but they want to help her out. But they realise what they've brought into their house is more trouble.'

FIGHTING BACK

As January heals, she reveals she and her room-mate, Liz, were kidnapped from their apartment by masked intruders desperate to find Liz's boyfriend. Liz was killed but January escaped – and now Bowdrie must keep January safe from a ruthless criminal network, led by the sadistic Alejandro (Tom Clancy's Jack Ryan actor Jordi Mollà), who are hunting her down.

'The guys who tried to kill January the first time are still looking. And when they come to Bowdrie's house, all hell breaks loose,' says Collins.

'It's a story about what a father would do to protect his daughter from the world. To get Mel to come out and actually lead a film says a lot about the script. This movie takes you on an emotional ride. It's a little violent, but there's a lot of heart.'

NEW HISTORY

Lucy Worsley Investigates: The American Revolution

Monday, 9pm, BBC2 (box set, BBC iPlayer)

Almost 250 years ago, on 4 July 1776, Thomas Jefferson and the United States' Founding Fathers issued the new nation's Declaration of Independence – an event that changed world history for ever.

But how had a ragtag army of American rebels emerged victorious against the might of British rule?

In this two-part series marking the country's 250th birthday, historian Lucy Worsley looks at the American War of Independence from a British perspective to examine the causes and after-effects of the monumental break-up.

SECRET STORY

'So often, history gets written by the winners,' says Worsley. 'Lots of people know the US side of the American Revolution, but fewer know the British story. I'll be investigating this hidden history to tell the forgotten and surprising story of how losing America affected Britain.'

Worsley begins the story in 1765, when the British Crown began introducing a series of new taxes on American colonists in a bid to recoup funds following war with the French in North America.

'Americans were already paying a local tax, so they didn't want to pay more,' explains Worsley. 'But as far as the British were concerned, they'd just spent loads of money defending the colonists from their enemies in North America, so it was time they paid their share. It was a bit like a messy break-up between two lovers who see things in different ways.'

Tensions continued to rise over the following years until activists called the Sons of Liberty ditched 342 chests of British tea into Boston Harbor to protest against taxation without representation.

KING'S RANSOM

Dubbed the 'Boston Tea Party', it was the pivotal event that sparked the beginning of the American War of Independence in 1775. However, Worsley, 52, believes it could all have been avoided if King George III hadn't been so determined to clear the national debt so quickly.

'George III wasn't really listening to what the colonists wanted,' she says. 'They weren't rebelling against him – they wanted an end to unfair taxes and they wanted the right to make their own laws. They still wanted to be part of the British Empire, but on more equal terms.'

A fascinating profile of controversial billionaire Elon Musk

NEW FACTUAL

The Elon Musk Show: The Next Chapter

Thursday, 9pm, BBC2

Elon Musk is one of the most polarising figures alive today and this one-off documentary charts the most recent events in the bizarre life of the world's richest man.

Following on from 2022 miniseries The Elon Musk Show, the film highlights the changes the South Africa-born billionaire has made to the social-media platform Twitter, which he bought for $44bn and which is now called X.

Among the contributors is data scientist Rumman Chowdhury, who was Head of Ethics at Twitter when Musk took over in 2022, and was one of many employees made redundant in the aftermath.

SWINGING THE AXE

'He fired 30% [of staff], so we're talking a big chunk of the company being just gone,' she has said.

'My team's job was to make sure Twitter wasn't perpetuating harmful content. We lasted maybe a week and then my laptop was turned off. After that, we saw a big upswing in hateful content.'

The film also charts how Musk spent hundreds of millions of dollars funding Donald Trump's successful 2024 election campaign. He was later given the task of slashing federal spending, and brandished a chainsaw at a political conference to show how he was going to cut trillions in government waste.

However, the Tesla and SpaceX boss left the position after just a brief stint in Washington.

'Musk had the money, but then he wanted love and acknowledgement that he was smarter than everyone else,' says journalist Michael Wolff. 'He saw Trump as someone he could influence or even control.'

The film also looks at Musk's personal life, with journalist Julia Black reporting on rumours that he has fathered children with different women as part of a deliberate plan.

'A source told me Musk was having lots of kids as part of a project to take over the world,' says Black. 'He wants to have a base on Mars so mankind will survive and that's also why he wants so many kids. He's publicly acknowledged having 14 children – I've heard the most outrageous numbers about how many he might actually have, maybe even hundreds.'

MOVIE OF THE WEEK

Daisy Ridley stars in this thoughtful rumination on grief – by way of zombies...

We Bury the Dead

HORROR DRAMA

Saturday, 6.45am & 10.20pm, Sky Premiere ★★★★

There seems to be a resurgence in zombie movies at the moment, but Australian writer-director Zak Hilditch's We Bury the Dead is a lot less frenzied than most, cutting back on jump scares and gore and leaning towards quiet melancholy rather than edge-of-the-seat fear.

The story sees American physiotherapist Ava (Daisy Ridley) travelling to Tasmania after a military catastrophe (accidentally caused by the US) has killed half a million people. Ava has volunteered to help with body retrieval, although her real motive is to locate her husband, who was visiting the island at the time of the disaster. Teaming up with the seemingly nonchalant Clay (Brenton Thwaites), they surreptitiously head down south, the most dangerous place on the island, to the last place Ava's spouse was. Some of the dead, however, are not staying down...

Moments of abrupt violence and passages of suspense do punctuate Ava's quest, but the film will probably prove too low-key overall for hardcore horror fans. Hilditch's film has a surprisingly deep psychological angle, helped considerably by Ridley's convincing portrayal of haunted grief. 2024, 15, 95MIN

From Thursday, Netflix ★★★★

An absolute treat, this terrifically entertaining comedy stars June Squibb (93 at the time) as an elderly lady tricked by a scam but determined to take down the criminals behind it. She dodges her overprotective family (daughter Parker Posey, her husband Clark Gregg and kindly slacker grandson Fred Hechinger) to race round – at 20mph – with help from her cautious friend (Richard Roundtree) and his electric scooter. Shot as a typical actioner accompanied by a pulsating score, this comedy never patronises but showcases the upsides and downswings of getting older. Squibb is simply wonderful in a sweet-natured film that has family and the importance of its bonds at its core, that works by being both breezy and sharp as a tack. From 21 May. 2024, 12, 98MIN

ACTION COMEDY

Mike & Nick & Nick & Alice

Available now, Disney+ ★★★★

Although nominally a sci-fi movie, the time travel element here is pretty much on the backburner – for the most part this is a wonderful slice of pure old-school action comedy. Mobster Vince Vaughn needs the help of hitman James Marsden – to keep a certain person quiet for the night. Himself. Well, the Vaughn of tonight – the one asking is from the future... Throw in Eiza Gonzalez as Vaughn's wife and Marsden's lover, and a series of parties for the prison release of crimelord Keith David's dumb son Jimmy Tatro and there's a lot going on. But writer-director BenDavid Grabinski keeps everything on the rails superbly, delivering a cracking crime caper that never quite slips into parody, but is smart, funny, action-filled and containing great turns by all the leads. 2026, 15, 107MIN

Rather than be the usual uplifting tale of winning, this solid biopic of extreme fighter Mark Kerr concentrates on the devastation of losing. Dwayne Johnson is remarkable as Kerr, a soft-spoken mountain of a man fighting in the precursor to the UFC, Pride, as we witness his winning streak come to an end, resulting in him falling apart, not helped by his drug addiction. There to help him back up – but with very different approaches – is sassy girlfriend Dawn (a superb Emily Blunt) and fellow fighter Mark Coleman (Ryan Bader). It's a thoughtful film about a brutal sport. 2025, 15, 123MIN

Mia Goth has roaringly good fun as Maxine in writer-director Ti West's trilogy-closing slasher tale (after X and prequel Pearl). Detectives Michelle Monaghan and Bobby Cannavale aim to take him down, while Kevin Bacon (relishing his role) is an odious private eye. BLACK-COMEDY HORROR

The Bride!

Friday, 9.50am & 8pm, Sky Premiere ★★★★

Stitching together scraps and gobbets of other works, actor-turned-writer-director Maggie Gyllenhaal's The Bride! is a gloriously unhinged monster mash of a movie: Bride of Frankenstein meets Bonnie and Clyde meets Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, with a chunk of #MeToo feminist rage thrown in, too. Jessie Buckley plays the eponymous Bride, a reluctant gangster's moll in 1936 Chicago who becomes possessed by the rebellious spirit of author Mary Shelley (also played by Buckley) only to meet a violent end shortly after.

After she is 'reinvigorated' by mad scientist Dr Euphronious (Annette Bening) as a mate for Shelley's creation, achingly lonely monster 'Frank' (touchingly played by Christian Bale), the pair go on the run pursued by cops and gangsters and inspiring abused women across the US to strike back at their tormentors.

Gyllenhaal stuffs in so much – there are also roles for Penélope Cruz as a sassy 'lady detective' and Jake Gyllenhaal as an Astaire-like star, Frank's screen idol – that her film can't help but be messy, but it somehow holds together thanks to its visual daring, anarchic energy and the brilliance of its cast. 2025, 15, 127MIN

FA Cup Final

Can Chelsea rescue a wretched season against Manchester City at Wembley?

LIVE FOOTBALL

Saturday, kick-off 3pm, BBC1, TNT Sports 1 & HBO Max

Manchester City will be aiming to claim a second trophy of the season when they take on Chelsea in the FA Cup final at Wembley Stadium.

Pep Guardiola's men defeated Arsenal to win the EFL Cup in March, and the league champions are still fighting it out with the Gunners in a thrilling battle for the Premier League title (see panel, right).

Following a disappointing start to the season, City have looked back to their best in recent months, with Erling Haaland rediscovering his goalscoring touch and skilful winger Jérémy Doku netting two sensational long-range efforts against Everton earlier this month.

This season's Cup campaign began with a 10-1 romp at home to Exeter City and also saw a 4-0 win over Liverpool in the quarter-finals that included a hat-trick from Haaland as City made the semi-finals for an eighth year in a row.

A late comeback against Southampton in the last four means seven-time winners City are now appearing in a fourth consecutive final, having lost in dramatic fashion to underdogs Crystal Palace 12 months ago.

IN CRISIS

Chelsea, meanwhile, have endured a miserable season, with both Enzo Maresca and Liam Rosenior departing the club, England forward Cole Palmer struggling to find form, and the team recently slumping to a sixth consecutive league defeat for only the fourth time in their history.

Only their Cup campaign has been a highlight. Beginning with a 5-1 victory at Charlton Athletic, it has included a Pedro Neto hat-trick in a win at Hull City, an extra-time triumph over Wrexham, and a narrow semi-final win against Leeds United that secured the Blues' 17th appearance in the final as they seek to lift the trophy for a ninth time.

TAKING CHARGE

Academy coach Calum McFarlane has been appointed interim boss until the end of the season and has plenty of talent at his disposal – including Argentina midfielder Enzo Fernández and Brazil's teenage sensation Estêvão – but will it be enough to save their season on Saturday?

Women's Six Nations finale

Sunday, BBC1, BBC2 & BBC iPlayer

This year's Championship has set new attendance records, and there will be another big crowd at the Stade Atlantique in Bordeaux as reigning champions England and France battle it out in 'Le Crunch' title decider (k-o 4.45pm, BBC1; not N Ireland). Red Roses captain Meg Jones will be aiming to lead England to an eighth successive title, but can't underestimate a Les Bleues side that includes the talented Anaïs Grando. Also on Sunday, Wales host Italy at Cardiff Arms Park (k-o 12.15pm, BBC2; BBC1 in Wales) and Ireland take on Scotland at the Aviva Stadium in Dublin (k-o 2.30pm, BBC iPlayer).

Hit Point

Nick Blood and Saffron Hocking star in an offbeat crime thriller

Shrewd detection meets touching romance in U&Dave's first original drama series Hit Point, airing this summer.

The action-packed six-part police thriller, which is laced with wry humour, is penned by Howard Overman and stars Twenty Twenty Six's Nick Blood as Leo, a detective in his 30s, who works alongside colleague Bella, played by Top Boy's Saffron Hocking.

As the pair undertake a dark and dangerous investigation, which sees them cross paths with the criminal underworld in west London, they land themselves in a deep mire of secrets and treachery in their bid to crack the case. But along the way, their professional relationship starts to shift and take a more emotional turn when they fall in love with each other. How will their growing feelings impact on their search for the truth?

Hocking as Bella

TEAMWORK

William Abadie, Brendan Coyle, Nadia Parkes, Peter Serafinowicz, Moe Bar-El, Ossian Perret and Joshua Sher also appear.

'We are all excited to be teaming up on Hit Point,' says Overman, the award-winning writer of Misfits and Atlantis. 'It's been a joy to create a show that blends high-octane thrills with heart, humour and a love story at its core. I can't wait for audiences to dive into the twists, turns and surprises we have in store.'

Crime dramas to look forward to

Dalziel and Pascoe

ITV1's new spin on Reginald Hill's novels stars Nina Singh and Kerry Godliman as the mismatched sleuths.

Berlin Noir

Winter

Richard Armitage and Annabel Scholey head the cast of ITV1's Bristol-set thriller about a troubled forensic pathologist.

WHAT'S NEXT FOR...

Andrea Riseborough

The actor will star in ITV1's six-part thriller First Woman as a pioneering astronaut who vanishes while crewing a moon base and her husband (Ashley Walters) must uncover what lies behind her disappearance.

Sara Pascoe

In U&Dave and U&W's six-part reality show Wagging Rights, the comedian will join Rhod Gilbert, Harriet Kemsley, Kae Kurd and Vicky Pattison as they try to train their pet pooches to become show dogs.

Alison Hammond

The presenter will host ITV1's revival of classic game show Name That Tune, in which members of the public must compete to guess a well-known song from just a few notes played by a live band.

Richard Herring

C4's The Great Celebrity Pottery Throw Down, hosted by Liza Tarbuck, will see the comic tackle clay-based challenges alongside the likes of Paul Merson, Layton Williams and Denise Van Outen.
